

At home idioms

I'd love to be a _____ on the wall at that meeting. Sparks will fly when she tells them about the production delay.

I started off working in the post room. The hours were bad and the pay was low but it was a _____ in the door.

Don't waste your time trying to explain it to Paul. The _____ are on but no-one's home.

We'd love to live in San Francisco but the cost of renting has gone through the _____ in the last decade.

I'm so sorry your meal was late Mr Farmer. Please accept my apologies and this bottle of wine on the _____.

Oh look, here he is, Mr Bigshot. Someone roll out the red _____.

Murray was losing by two sets when he managed to turn the _____ on his opponent and finally emerged as the winner.

We'd love to buy a small flat in London but it's so expensive to get on the property _____ these days. We might end up moving to another city.

ladder roof house tables fly lights foot carpet
--

Can you think of any situations where you could use some of these idioms?

Do you have any similar idioms in your own language?