

Idioms to do with books and reading

I know he looks a bit funny Darlene but you can't judge a book by its _____ . He's actually very nice.

She didn't tell me she was unhappy but reading between the _____ I think there are some problems in her relationship.

That's it. Today I'm turning over a new _____. I'm going to start living a healthy life and study hard for my exams.

I'm not sure we're all on the same _____. Do we all agree that the future of this company is in web services?

Today is the beginning of a new _____ in the history of technology. Today is the day when the world finally got a flying car.

Pyramid schemes are the oldest _____ in the book but thousands of people fall for them every year.

I'm not buying Jim a birthday present. He's still in my bad _____ for forgetting my birthday last year.

He denied cheating on the test but I know he did it, it was written all over his _____ .

face trick chapter leaf cover page books lines
---

Can you think of situations where you could use some of these idioms?