

Cooking idioms

I don't want to waste any more time on this overtime issue, I've got bigger _ _ _ _ _ to fry.

And then my extremely lazy colleague said that I wasn't working hard enough ... talk about the _ _ _ _ _ calling the kettle black!

Management have come up with some _ _ _ _ _ baked idea of redesigning the website but they don't know what they are doing, as usual.

With fifteen minutes remaining and the score at 2-2, this game is really coming to a _ _ _ _ _.

I think some of our users will be unhappy with these changes, but you can't make an _ _ _ _ _ without breaking some eggs.

Everybody has a different opinion about the design of our new logo. It's a classic case of too many cooks spoiling the _ _ _ _ _.

Police are turning up the _ _ _ _ _ on motorists who park illegally in the High Street, vehicles which are not displaying a valid parking permit will be towed away and only released following the payment of a $100 fine.

In a case of out of the frying pan and into the _ _ _ _ _, the unlucky holiday maker fell down the side of a mountain while trying to flee from armed robbers. He was later rescued with minor injuries.

heat boil broth fish half fire pot omelette
--

Can you think of any situations where you could use some of these idioms?

Do you have any similar idioms in your own language?