

Time idioms

Gosh is it 6pm already! Doesn't time fly when you're having _____?

Rescuers are in a _____ against time to find any survivors from last week's earthquake.

Once in a blue _____ I drive back to my hometown and see how much has changed over the years.

We should never have started this project, it's been a complete _____ of time.

In the short _____ the the price of oil could continue to rise, however, next year it should begin to stabilise.

So today is the moment of _____. One of these two great teams will finally lift the trophy and become world champions.

Employees are working round the _____ to be ready for the big product launch at the end of the month.

Come on Eileen, it's time to stop living in the _____. Go out and have some fun, maybe you'll meet someone new.

Ah Jeff, you're just in _____ to hear what Roger has to say about his trip to Moscow.

time clock waste term moon fun race past truth
---

Can you think of situations when you might use some of these idioms?