

Making an impression

Its important to avoid making snap _____ based on superficial details such as dress sense and accent.

Do you think I should wear a suit? I want to get off on the right _____ with my new boss.

My colleagues invited me for a lunchtime drink which helped break the _____.

I'm not sure about the second candidate, he smelled funny and had a real wet _____ handshake.

Good luck Ayse, I'm sure with your CV and job experience you'll knock their _____ off.

I like that new sales assistant, she seems very competent, and she even paid me a _____ about my taste in ties.

Good luck with the meeting Ron, remember to give everyone a chance to speak, you can't always be the center of _____.

fish foot attention judgements compliment ice socks

Do you have any similar idioms in your own language?